SCHOOL REPORT.

In preparing our report at the close of another school year, it is with pleasure that we can say the school board were fortunate in securing good teachers for our schools. By raising the pay in some of the schools we were enabled to keep some of our best teachers in town and, also, to procure some first class teachers from out of town. The pay for the past few years has been so low our best teachers have gone to other places where they could get more pay for their work. The teacher of our district school has a hard time enough, without the people begrudging her the money she gets for her labor. Last spring your school board thought Deerfield schools needed good teachers as much as other places, and accordingly used the best means in their power to retain our own and to procure other good teachers. At the close of the year we can say that the course taken was a wise one.

With one or two exceptions we procured teachers of experience, and are well pleased with the result.

The people of the district are acquainted with most of the teachers, and their work, and we feel that we can say nothing to add to their reputation as teachers. Those that had never taught in town before gave good satisfaction, and we were well pleased with their work.

In many of the schools we noticed that the scholars showed considerable interest in their studies, and the progress made was very encouraging.

It is with pleasure that we notice an increasing interest in the schools on the part of parents, judging from the number of visitors to some of the schools. District No. 1, leads with 69 visitors during the year. Other districts had many visitors. In most of the schools the parents do not visit the schools enough. It is very encouraging to the teachers to know that the people take an interest in her work, and she will strive to do better if she thinks the parents are trying to help her.

District No. 1 is fortunate in having more money than any other school through the kindness of the late John D. Philbrick, and the walls of the school-room are covered with maps and charts, given by Mr. and Mrs. Philbrick. This should encourage the pupils, and they should strive to have the best school in town.

Irregularity of attendance is one of the great evils of our schools; some of the scholars are absent or tardy many days during the year. The teachers, no matter how good, can not teach a pupil when absent. Parents do not seem to consider this and keep their children at home upon the slightest excuse, and many blame the teacher because their children do not learn more.

Another evil is talking about the teacher before their children. Another is thinking their children are always right, and do not need correcting. "Punish any child except mine," seems to be the thought of many.

After a careful examination of different text books on the subject of Geography, your board decided that Harper's was the best, and it was placed in the schools at the beginning of the year, and the change has proved very satisfactory. There are but two globes in the school-rooms. A globe is of great benefit to those studying geography, and should be found in every school-room.

Years ago dictionaries were placed in every school-room in town; some of them have been destroyed, others much injured. A dictionary should be placed in every school and be used daily by the pupils.

Great care should be taken in the selection of text books, and only the best should be used. Every publisher says his series is the best, and is urging the school boards to use his books. All books should be carefully examined before being introduced into our schools.

Whole number of different pupils attending school in town during the year was 252; number of boys 124, number of girls 128.

Amount of money for school purposes, $2050.80, with $52.50 additional the John D. Philbrick fund for District No. 1.

Some of the school houses are in a bad condition. At the Birch the house is in need of repairs. At the Old Centre the house is very cold, except the weather be warm, and the yard is in a bad condition and a disgrace to the community and town.

The houses at the Parade and Centre are in need of paint. It is poor economy to let the school houses go without necessary repairs. The district should keep its property in good condition, and not let it decrease in value.
